Lesson 1

Hello Learner

Below are the extracts that I read out in the video.

An extract from Lord of the Flies by William Golding: -

Over the island the build-up of clouds continued. A steady current of heated air rose all day from the mountain and was thrust to ten thousand feet; revolving masses of gas piled up until the air was ready to explode. It was early evening, the sun had gone and a brassy glare had taken the place of clear daylight. Even the air that pushed in from the sea was hot and held no refreshment. Colours drained from water and trees and pink surfaces of rock, and the white and brown clouds brooded.

An extract from Holes by Louis Sachar: -

There is no lake at Camp Green Lake. There was once a very large lake here, the largest lake in Texas. That was over a hundred years ago. Now it is just a dry, flat wasteland.

Remember that these writing exercises are just for fun. There are no hard or fast rules, no rights or wrongs here. Read over what you've written and the more you do the more you will see the mistakes that you've made and correct them. When you are happy with what you've written, get your dictionary and check your work for spelling errors. If you really take pride in your writing then you'll want it to be the very best that it can be. But first and foremost, grab your pencil and paper and let it flow!
